Key Questions to Ask Your Financial Professional
✓ Given my financial situation, should I choose a brokerage service, an advisory service, or both? Why or Why Not?
✓ How will you choose investments to recommend to me?
✓ What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education, and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?

What fees will I pay?
As a retail investor you are charged fees on a per transaction basis and therefore the firm may have an incentive to encourage an investor to participate in transactions. As a retail investor you are charged a variety of fees which have been detailed below:

- For private placements please refer to the offering memorandum for fee information.
- For brokerage accounts there are transaction and processing fees and expenses specific to various transactions and/or execution of securities within your brokerage account. This would include SEC fees, confirmation charges, retirement account custodian charges, paper statements / confirms fees, wire transfer fees, and annual inactivity fees. For specific information regarding our fees please visit our Noble Fee Schedule at https://www.noblecapitalmarkets.com/media/Noble_Capital_Client_Fee_Schedule.pdf.

In addition to our principal fees and costs for brokerage services, there are other common fees and costs that maybe applicable to our clients that include: custodian fees related to mutual funds, exchange-traded funds & variable insurance products, including surrender charges.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.
Key Question to Ask Your Financial Professional

✓ Help me understand how these fees and costs might affect my investments. If I give you $10,000 to invest, how much will go to fees and costs, and how much will be invested for me?

What are your legal obligations to me when providing recommendations? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we provide you with a recommendation, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the recommendations, we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means:

- For brokerage accounts, the more trades you place, the more commissions we charge thus we have an incentive to encourage more trading.
- Persons providing advice on behalf of our firm may be registered as both a registered representative of our broker dealer, as well as an investment advisor representative of our affiliated registered investment adviser. These individuals receive compensation in connection with the purchase and sale of securities or other investment products. Compensation earned is separate and in addition to advisory fees or broker dealer fees depending on the capacity that the individual is acting. This practice presents a conflict of interest since these individuals have an incentive to recommend investment products based on the compensation received rather than solely based on your needs.
- Our brokerage services and recommendations cover a limited selection of investments. Other firms could provide a wider range of choices, some of which may have lower costs.
